Story for the month of June

Shepherd Boys and the Fox.

Once upon a time there lived a few shepherd boys in a village. They took their sheep for grazing to the nearby forest every day. One day when they took their sheep for grazing, they carried their lunch boxes with them. As the sheep were grazing, the boys thought of playing for a while. The boys started thinking – "Where can we keep our lunch boxes?"

Suddenly, one of the boys saw a big tree nearby which had a big hole in its trunk. The boys thought it was a good idea to keep their lunch boxes inside the hole of the tree trunk. They kept their boxes there and went to play.

Meanwhile, a hungry fox was looking for food. The smell of the food brought him near the tree hole. He looked into the hole and saw many lunch boxes. The fox jumped into the hole of the tree and opened the boxes one by one. He ate up all the food. His stomach was full. But, there was some more food left in the boxes. The fox was greedy and ate up all of them.

Suddenly, the fox heard the boys coming towards the tree. The worried fox tried to jump out of the tree hole, but it could not. It got stuck in the hole as its stomach had become big like a balloon. The boys saw the fox and started shouting and tried to scare and chase the fox away. The fox tried very hard and jumped out of the hole and ran away. The fox learnt its lesson.

Moral of the story: Never be greedy.
